LOUISVILLE.

MONDAY MORNING.....AUGUST 12.

Gen. McDowell's Official Report.

We publish this morning Gen. McDowell's account of the battle of Bull Run. He acknowledges the loss of 481 killed and 1,600 wounded, and 25 pieces of artillery. The General fails to state how many are missing and who are prisoners.

This is a poor compliment to Northern courage, the idea that they were routed and fled in dismay with only 481 killed. McDowell admits that they fell into disorderly retreat, not from a panic, as has been stated, but because of the fierce and gallant fire of the reserve force of the Confederate army.

McDowell's report does cruel injustice to his soldiers, for they fought bravely and the killed numbered thousands. Duplicit is an even down right lying, however, it may be that the details of the affair are suppressed. This information was obtained direct from an officer in the western, and there can be no doubt of the facts that the Federals have been repulsed, if not captured, at Springfield, and that Gen. Lyon, in an enroute with his own men or officers, has been wounded, if not killed.

An extract from the St. Louis Herald, an other column, has further news.

RAUPIED DEATH OF GEN. LYON.—A gentleman, who left St. Louis Saturday, brings the intelligence that Gen. Lyon was shot by his own men at Springfield, Mo. This confirms the previous reports, already published, but the details of the affair are suppressed. This information was obtained direct from an officer in the western, and there can be no doubt of the facts that the Federals have been repulsed, if not captured, at Springfield, and that Gen. Lyon, in an enroute with his own men or officers, has been wounded, if not killed.

CALVARY IN EAST TENNESSEE.—We learn from the Knoxville, Tenn., Register, that volunteering for the Southern army in East Tennessee is going on briskly. Up to Thursday last, paper reports the acceptance of six cavalry companies, all well-mounted and equipped. They were stationed at Camp Cummings, consisting of both the old parties—Union men as well as Secessionists.

NEW COTTON.—The steamer Mary T., well-harried at New Orleans, on Sunday week, brought down the first load of cotton of this season's growth. It was from the plantation of Aylett Buckner, Thomas Padish, and delivered at Natchez to swift (with many other thousands of bales) the opening of the exports of the South.

42d Gen. Kirby Smith, of Florida, who was desperately wounded at the battle of Monusses Bluff, is reported in a fair way to recover. He was shot in the breast, the ball passing through, and coming out the back, missing the spine.

ANOTHER JACKSON.—Capt. Howell, U. S. A., was killed at Benton, Mo., on the 4th ult., by Richard Seward, keeper of the hotel, in the village, who shot him for having down a secession flag.

Commodore Tattnall, who is forming the nucleus of a navy at Savannah, issues proposals for the construction of five vessels of about one hundred and sixty tons each, for the Confederate service.

Col. Egbert Jones, of the 4th Alabama regiment, who was severely wounded at Monusses Bluff, is at Orange Court House, slowly recovering.

New Orleans is so desperately healthy that nearly all the physicians and surgeons have gone to Richmond.

12 We are indebted to a friend for New Orleans papers of last Friday, the 12th.

The War in Missouri.

The St. Louis Republican hasn't a word of news from Springfield, but we give this significant news from Bonnville, from that paper:

A gentleman, coming directly from Bonnville, informs us that on Tuesday last the Home Guard of that place, numbering about one hundred and twenty-five men, left Bonnville in a body, bound for Jefferson City, after having impressed an engineer and a plot into their service. They give as a reason for this conduct, that, owing to the departure of the last remnant of the State troops, they had no longer such against the attack of the Secessionists, to whom they had of late made themselves exceedingly obnoxious, by seizing many thousand dollars worth of powder, &c. They represent that Secessionists had, in their opinion, impressed, armed, and ammunition, could not be sent to the State forces, or for the proceeds of any sort of "war produce or manufactured articles." The extent of this loan was limited to fifty millions of dollars in 8 per cent bonds, payable twenty years from date; twenty millions of which might be issued in twenty years, and the remainder in twenty years in specie, and convertible bonds at the option of the holder.

This position placed them between Gen. Lyon and his regiment Roll, making him, as well as the other regiments, to retreat to Springfield, the right wing from the southeast side, principally composed of the infantry and the left wing, composed principally of cavalry.

After considerable maneuvering, marching and counter-marching, the center of the State forces gave way and were followed by Gen. Lyon, down the line of the South-West Branch of the Pacific Railroad from the point from which Lyon had retreated. The center of the State forces followed, retreating Gen. Fremont and the officer afterward, Gen. Fremont and the officer alluded to, drove off to the Arsenal in his carriage full of gold.

We devoted several hours to following the news, and picked up the following:

That on Friday last Gen. Lyon was attacked by the State forces, and a skirmish took place in which only a few lives were lost on each side.

shortly after, Gen. Lyon, and the officers being all present, and learning that there were 500 men, 100 of whom were from the 12th, and 400 from the 1st, and 100 from the 2d, and 100 from the 3d, and 100 from the 4th,
